Vietnam War Weekly History

February 17th – February 23rd, 2019

Issue: 141

Brief History of the 501st, 502nd and 2nd Brigade (101st ABN DIV)

The 502nd, or "five-oh-deuce", was activated July 1, 1941 at Fort Benning, Georgia as the 502nd parachute infantry battalion, as an experimental unit formed to test the doctrine and tactics of parachute assaults. The 502nd entered combat in World War II on June 6, 1944, by jumping into NORMANDY, with allied forces landing on D-Day and the Battle of NORMANDY. Between 1945 and 1964. A major reorganization took place on 3 February 1964, when the 2nd Brigade of the 101st Airborne was activated at Fort Campbell, replacing the 1st Airborne Battle Group, 501st Infantry Regiment. The reorganization from the battle groups to brigades and battalions placed two battalions of the 502nd in different brigades of the 101st.

The 2nd Battalion, 502nd Infantry was in the 1st Brigade with 1-327th and 2-327th Infantry. Which deployed to Vietnam and arrived at Cam Ranh Bay, Vietnam on 29 July 1965, they were commanded by the most notable commander LTC Hank "The Gunfighter" Emerson.

The new 2nd Brigade's original organic battalions were the 1st and 2d Battalions, 501st Infantry, and the 1st Battalion, 502nd Infantry. December 1967 the 501st, 502nd and 2nd Brigade deployed by C-141 aircraft and arrived at BIEN HOA Airbase on 13 December 1967. Over the next five years, Soldiers of the "Ready to Go" Brigade participated in twelve campaigns, compiling of a distinguished combat record as well as an enviable reputation for success in the rehabilitation of a war-torn nation. The Brigade redeployed to Fort Campbell in April 1972.

During this week, in the span of 8 years since the 501st Infantry Regiment, 502nd Infantry Regiment and 2nd Brigade, 101st Airborne Division deployed in support of the Vietnam War the following are from After Action Reports, Staff Duty Logs, and Personal Accounts. 17 – 19 February 1966

Operation VAN BUREN: The 2-502 IN BN (-) in Southern sector of TAOR GOLD continued aggressive RECONDO patrolling during the period of 17-19 February. Results of actions for this period were: 1 VC KBA, 2 VCS, 1 KIA (BC) and 1 AA gun mount captured. The 2-502 IN BN closed TUY HOA South Airfield on 20 February at 0835H terminating Operation VAN BUREN. (HQ, 2-502 IN; Operation VAN BUREN, After Action Report 150600H January 1966 – 201200 February 1966)

17 – 22 February 1967

Operation FARRAGUT: The Brigade initiated search and destroy operations in the western portion of the LE HONG PHONG Forest. Airmobile assaults were conducted by all the battalions at first light from PHAN THIET and SONG MAO to selected LZ's in the AO and following a B-52 strike at 1000H, all elements-initiated search and destroy operations and extensive patrolling to deny enemy egress out of the area. 2-502 IN BN along with 2 DS CIDG platoons conducted search and destroy operations to SE.

The airmobile assault phase of the operation was conducted prior to an in conjunction with the B-52 strike. All elements of the blocking force and assault elements from 1-327 IN BN, 2-502 IN BN were in position prior to the B-52 strike and the airmobile assault continued during the B-52 strike. The operation during the period of 17-22 February was characterized by numerous, but light contact and frequent encounter with mines, booby traps, snipers and harassing fire. The 2-502 IN BN during this period discovered numerous base camps and fortified positions ranging in size from 17-100 bunkers. (HQ, 1BDE, 101st ABN DIV; After Action Report, Operation FARRAGUT)

Operation FARRAGUT II:

Location: PHAN THIET, SONG MAO, DI LINH, LE HONG PHONG Forest, BINH THUAN and LAM DONG Provinces.

Type: Search and Destroy.

Controlling headquarters: 1BDE, 101st ABN DIV

Task organization: 1-327 IN BN, 2-327 IN BN, 2-502 IN BN, 2-320 ARTY, B/1-30 ARTY, A/2-17 CAV, A/326 ENG, 2-7 CAV (17-22 Feb), A-237 LUONG SON (Two CO's), 4th Troop 8th ARVN ACS.

Execution: The second phase of Operation FARRAGUT began two days after the termination of GATLING II by the brigade minus and one day after Task Force THUNDERBALL moved to SONG MAO. On 17 Feb the brigade-initiated search and destroy operations in the western portion of the LE HONG PHONG Forest, conducting combat-assaults with all battalions at first light from PHAN THIET and SONG MAO to selected LZs following a B-52 strike. 2-7 CAV from Operation BYRD screened the brigade's southwestern flank while a troop from the 8th ARVN ACS reopened Route 1 between PHAN THIET and SONG MAO. Contact was light. On 22 Feb, 2-7 CAV returned to PHAN THIET and 2-502 IN was extracted back to SONG MAO. On 23 Feb, the brigade began operations in the eastern portion of the LE HONG PHONG Forest, again encountering only light resistance. On 24 Feb, in response to a request for assistance from LAM DONG Province, 2-502 IN and C/2-320 ARTY conducted airmobile assaults from SONG MAO to selected LZ west of DI LINH and began search and destroy operations to locate an estimated VC battalion which had ambushed local ARVN forces. On 25 Feb, a company from 2-502 IN made contact with an estimated two-company force southwest of DI LINH, killing 9 while losing 1 KIA and 8 WIA. On 27 Feb, the brigade terminated operations in both areas and extracted to SONG MAO to conduct maintenance and prepare for future operations in the FARRAGUT AO. (Vietnam Combat Operations – A chronology of Allied combat operations in Vietnam; Stephane Moutin-Luyat; 2011)

Operation FARRAGUT IV: After spending 2 days on maintenance and training at the PHAN THIET Base Camp the STRIKE FORCE initiated Operation FARRAGUT IV with an air assault into 3 LZ's to the northeast of PHAN THIET in BINH THUAN Province. The area under attack permitted the enemy to dominate Highway 1 from PHAN THIET to SONG MAO and allowed them free access to a long portion of coast line. Platoons of CIDG from LONG SON were attached to both A/2-502 IN and B/2-502 IN. The artillery moved overland behind a major road opening operation to the new TAC CP, located at LONG SON.

As the maneuver elements began search and destroy operations to the south, rice and water caches were discovered in the vicinity of small VC campsites. C/2-502 IN conducted a successful night ambush on a carrying party of 12 VC on 19 February, killing 4 and capturing 1 AK-47. During the period of 17-22 February, several other small contacts were made, generally involving carrying parties. These parties consisted of 2 to 4-armed VC escorting male and female bearers; they moved at night along major and secondary trails.

This AO as a low, rolling sandy, brush covered area characterized by extreme dryness, and for the first-time units had to be resupplied with water every other day. Since LZ's had to be cut with machetes, (this requiring several hours) movement was seriously curtailed. The CIDG were under a very severe handicap, as they carried only 2 canteens, instead of 4 as the GI's did. To make matters worse, Soldiers began to suffer from vomiting and stomach cramps. This was attributed to impure water being used to resupply the troops.

17 February 1968 2-501 IN BN was assigned to mission of providing security for the AN LO Bridge located northwest of HUE. While enroute to the AN LO Bridge, the Battalion received a change in mission and proceeded to LZ SALLY where it marshaled with the 3BDE, 1st ACD in preparation for Operation JEB STUART.

17 February 1968 1-502 IN BN continues search and destroy operations southeast of QUANG TRI and conducted one combat assault with A/1-502 IN into the same area as contact on 16 February. Heavy contact resulted in 1 KIA and 11 WIA with negative enemy assessment.

17 February 1968 The Death of Lieutenant Pershing by Charles E Allen: Forty-three years ago, I was a PFC, Light Weapons Infantryman (11B2P) in A/1-502 IN, 101st ABN DIV then Commanded by Captain Terrance Spiegelberg who had replaced the late Captain Joseph Holland (KIA, 2/1/68). I had joined the division in October 1967 and had deployed with the 2BDE to the Republic of South Vietnam in December of that year. I started out in the 2nd platoon but over the course of the ten months, with the division in country, I eventually ended up in all four platoons to include the mortar platoon. Anyone who has ever been a foster child can tell you that getting bounced around from home to home is not a particularly good feeling, but it does and can provide dividends. For example, you get to know and serve with a lot more people; Perhaps more like a minor military dependent than an unwanted, foster child. I guess you could say, I was expendable but hey, it's a tough life. When I think back to those adrenalin fused days in the field under Spiegelberg, I can still see him and his Radio Operator (RTO), the ungodly, brash, SP4 Jesse George battling for control of the company to the point of almost coming to blows. I once heard George respond to a Spiegelberg threat by telling him, "IF you thought you could kick my "expletive," you'd have done it a long time ago so let's try to reason this out like grown men (SMILE)." Although you're talking about an officer and a subordinate in a relationship brimming with insubordinate overtones, these guys were extremely devoted to each other. Military humor being what it is, George was often teased about being Spiegelberg's illegitimate son, I know with a certainty that there's nothing one wouldn't have done for the other in life.

In February of 1968 I was reassigned from the 2nd platoon to the 1st platoon, commanded by LT. Richard Pershing who was most ably supported by legendary SSG Jorge Otero-Barreto, often called and recognized as the most decorated soldier of the Vietnam War (see Wikipedia). Attention is further directed to the documentary "Brave Lords" concerning the same. If my memory has not failed me, I believe we were operating from a hardscrabble, firebase called Landing Zone (LZ) JANE. This was during the height of the TET Offensive and the monsoons; we were scared, cold and wet all of the time (not necessarily in that order). Hunger was another whole issue unto itself. There was another treatment done on this story which I considered woefully inaccurate, it is my desire to the best of my ability to set the record straight.

In the early morning hours of February 16, 1968, A/1-502 IN boarded Huey helicopters for an Air Assault on an NVA held village in THUA THIEN Province. This was the largest Air Assault I had participated in up to that time and I remembered thinking as we flew along, this is not going to end well. My feelings of foreboding were born out when we jumped/fell out of the choppers onto what was called in the vernacular, a Hot LZ! We formed up on line and proceeded to advance rapidly toward our objective under rifle fire that went from intense to withering with the 2nd platoon absorbing the brunt of the fire. As I looked to my left, I watched in dismay as many of my former 2nd platoon buddies were cut down. I remember thinking selfishly, that would have been me. On the other hand, I saw my former platoon sergeant amongst them with his right forearm shattered and I knew with a certainty that he would not be putting me on "Point" anymore, which he was very fond of doing. You think of a lot of things in these very compressed situations that the uninitiated could never imagine. We proceeded to cross a little canal in front of the village and breached the hedgerow that many Vietnamese villages have surrounding them. There was a 45-degree incline in this portion of the village - if you saw Hamburger Hill, it looked very much like that. As we proceeded up the hill, we started taking sporadic gunfire, not particularly troubling but enough to kill you, when all of a sudden there was this loud, ominous swoosh and a contrail coming down the hill. For those of you who have never experienced a Rocket Propelled Grenade (RPG) coming at you, by the time you realize what happened, it's too late. I heard LT Pershing say with a sigh of relief, "That damn thing almost hit me in the head!" He ordered us out of the village at this point and we were soon airlifted out of the area and taken back to either LZ JANE or AN LO Bridge; I can't remember which at this point. I do remember that on the ride back, I had the very exhausted but satisfied feeling of a survivor. I was saddened to learn later that we had lost SP4 Randall Saunders and SP4 Valentine Vollmer who was the assistant gunner to M60 machine gunner, PFC Matt DuRousseau. I remembered Vollmer well from Ft. Campbell because he was a very amiable, good hearted kid out of Wisconsin who once told me during a pre-deployment soul searching moment that he became a paratrooper because he wanted his father to be proud of him. Vollmer's death was compounded by the fact that because of the intense fire, repeated attempts to remove his body from the village had proven futile. Of the 3 people who had been with him when he died, two of them, Otero and SP4 Ronald Nye were wounded- Nye three times. In the end, it was literally all they could do to save themselves. I cannot speak for other units but in the 101st leaving a man behind was something that just wasn't done. That night I overheard some of the officers say, "We're going back tomorrow to get Vollmer!"

In the cold, early morning hours of February 17, 1968, we stood in line as we had the day before waiting for the Huey's to come pick us up for our second assault on the aforementioned village. I do not know with certainty, but I believe that our primary objective was the retrieval of our fallen brother. Waiting with us was the intrepid Otero with his leg bandaged from the day before, ready and more than willing to face the enemy again. What a marvel he was, the average Troop would have milked that wound for at least a month. I had an advantage that I did not have the day before. This time I knew what to expect, it was terrifying and comforting all at the same time. Picture if you will the helicopter assault in "Apocalypse Now" minus the goofy Hollywood BS. Our pilot came in low over the village and did a very, tight, bank turn. As I looked directly down from my seat in the chopper doorway, I could see combatants with AK-47s running from house to house which up to this time I had never seen before. I got the distinct impression that they were positioning themselves to their best advantage in order to meet out as much mayhem upon us as possible; there wasn't going to be any running today! By my best estimate, we landed about 100+ yards from the hedgerow of the village which was also separated from us by a rice paddy. Disembarking was a little more orderly than the day before but the paddy in this area was kind of deep; the water was at least waist high. Imagine walking in this with a foot of mud under that. It was arduous and time consuming but safe because it lowered your profile to an enemy watching you advance; there was less of you to shoot at.

I don't know when it happened, but somebody got up on the rice paddy dike, followed by the rest of us in rapid succession. This was a Cardinal Sin in Southeast Asia because you had negated the advantages you had by walking in the paddy. We walked down the dike to the point where it connected with another dike which ran horizontal to the village hedgerow; we turned left and proceeded on. I looked at the hedgerow (which was somewhere I guess between 50 and 100 yards away by conservative estimate) and saw in the distant an image which will be frozen in my memory for the rest of my days. From under the water in the canal rose a small, brown, wet figure with black pajama pants clinging to his small frame. He raised what looked like a broom stick to shoulder level and fired! I saw a black bead and gas escape from the stick. My brain recognized all too late the terrible swoosh sound from the day before. I don't know whether it was the grenade or it's vapor trail, but something passed so close to my head that I was flipped over backward. In my body's rotation, I observed LT Pershing seemingly cart wheeling in the air in slow motion, his final sound in life audibly escaping his lungs. There were other men clustered around Pershing that had also been wounded by the explosion that killed him. They were at this point floundering in the rice paddy water trying to reconnect to real world time! As my brain made adjustments, I also observed that the Field First Sergeant's hand was badly mangled. You can do a lot of things when you're terrified out of your wits and one of them is the ability to run very rapidly over water. With the exception of the medic Dave Kraus who stayed behind to tend the wounded, this is exactly what we did with great dispatch to a distance about thirty to forty yards back from the position we were fired upon. This was by no means an orderly retreat and we again found ourselves faced with yesterday's dilemma, we had left LT Pershing's body behind. As we kneeled/sat, gasping for breath, SSG Thomas Hall stated, "We (?) gotta go back and get LT Pershing." He instructed me, PFC Joe Sanchez and two other individuals whose names are loss to history to retrieve LT Pershing. After a few moments to catch our breath, we proceeded to do this under very intense, hostile fire that was sending up ominous geysers of water around us as we moved to our task with great haste. If you're looking for an image, think of the bullet strikes in the opening sequences of "Saving Private Ryan." Now that I've thought more about it, it seems like the distance back to LT Pershing was more than 40 yards but under the prevailing conditions it might as well have been 40 miles! The impact of the RPG had completely crushed Pershing's head; I don't remember whether we put him in a poncho or not, but we managed to get him back roughly to our starting point where a medevac had landed. As we placed Pershing's body onto the chopper, I observed a Rolex Oyster on his wrist that I knew it would never make it back home to his family. If this was a football game which it obviously wasn't, this would be the point when the halftime comes because we were too tired, decimated and beat up to continue. I've have talked to other participants in this battle who say there were three RPGs fired at us that day. I know these people, I know them to be credible and I believed them, but Helene Allen's baby boy can only remember the one that almost got him.

Captain Spiegelberg radioed LZ SALLY for some reinforcements and B Company which had been positioned at LZ SALLY as a reactionary force, sent some guys out to help us, as I remember five men. On this day SSGT Hall was undoubtedly acting as my Guardian Angel. He told me to go down to Spiegelberg's position because he wanted to talk to me (?). When I arrived at his position, I observed some 90-millimeter recoilless rifles (90) on the ground with ammo. With the Bravo Company replacements and the chosen Alpha Company personnel, Spiegelberg began to tell us what he wanted done. He instructed us to go down to the edge of the village, close to the hedgerow and fire the 90 rounds into it because he felt that snipers in the village were using it as a vantage point. I stood there trying to collect my thoughts and muster my courage when CPL Billy Myers (KIA, 5/7/68) who was the leader of the detail said, "What's the matter with you, you want to live forever?" I responded in the affirmative but reached down to pick up the 90 anyway. As my hand touched the 90, it was knocked away by the hand of PFC Henry Gregory from B Company who stated, "I'll take this, I fired expert on it in Advanced Infantry training (AIT)." I looked at Gregory for a moment who I didn't know. He was the embodiment of the cockiness of youth and its innocence all wrapped into one. I told him it didn't make any difference to me and that I would carry the rounds and be the loader. We ran under sporadic fire down to the edge of the hedgerow followed by the others, PFC Frank Hoge also from B Company was immediately behind us carrying the M60 Machine gun. When we got into position, I loaded a round into the back of the recoilless rifle and laid down beside Gregory who quickly fired off a round. We repeated the procedure but this time as I laid down next to him, watching him adjust the sights, I saw his head slump over the 90 and he exhaled; he did not inhale again. I didn't get excited or scared, I didn't try to shake or revive him because I knew in that instant, he was gone, the thought screamed through my Tired brain, "Sweet Jesus, that was supposed to be me!" As I turned to my right rear, I saw Hoge being shot off of the M60 from about 10 yards' distance. I never heard the round that killed Gregory or Hoge. At this point, I don't believe I was afraid of dying anymore, there was nothing left for the rest us to do but end this murderous folly; the snipers simply got us before we could get them. We collected our dead comrades and returned to Spiegelberg's command post where one of the kids from B Company was in an understandable, very, foul mood. He stated, "If we hadn't come out here to help you, our people would still be alive." I felt like I was coming apart at the seams but there wasn't any point in coming unglued or crying because I knew there would be other days like this and worst.

From December 26, 1967 to February 17, 1968 the 1/502nd Infantry Battalion had lost 100 men. With the aid of National Archives records, I've come up with the figure of 22 wounded and 5 killed for the action described above. A Company retired to LZ JANE to Stand Down because it was no longer able to function as such, we were in desperate need of the replacements. On February 19, 1968, which also just happened to be my birthday, I ran into new replacement, SGT James Holmes in the company tent, I made it my business to try and scare him with some war stories which I had become pretty good at. I always liked to think that I scared him the right way because he went on to win a Silver Star at the historic battle of PHOUC YEN a couple of months later. Also, in this new group was Charles "Country" Cole who went on to become a 1-502 IN BN writer of some renown, Wallace Chavis who was also the recipient of a Silver Star at PHOUC YEN, Ben Jones who was tragically lost on March 22, 1968 while on ambush and Michael "Music Man" Shramko who died heroically on March 8th at the Battle of AP DONG LAM. On this eventful morning, I was assigned to go on a mine sweeping, road detail and I had made all preparations to do. Just prior to reporting for duty I went to the slit trench to relieve myself when I noticed some blood in my stool. Thoughts about my own mortality started to run through my head; well at least I'd be going home. I was back in the 2nd platoon at this point so I reported my condition to SSG Gelasio Gomez, Jr. (KIA, 5/1/68, PHOUC YEN) who informed me that he was going to put me on sick call and send me to the infirmary. He further informed me not to concern myself about the detail because my place would be taken by one of the new replacements. Somewhat to my dismay the doctor very quickly corrected my C-ration- induced, hemorrhoid condition and I was deemed fit to return to the field. I consoled myself and celebrated my birthday by eating a case of tootsie rolls that I had borrowed from a special provisions box that I found. Later on, that day, I was informed that the kid that took my place on the detail was blown up when he stepped on a vehicular mine that a truck had run over prior to his stepping on it. His name was Ronnie Harrell; he had been in Alpha Company all of two hours. This was the point in my life when I started to think in earnest that maybe the Great Master had something else in mind for me.

I saw SSG Hall shortly afterward at AN LO Bridge. He informed me that they (?) were putting the members of the 1st platoon who had participated in the retrieval of LT Pershing's body, in for the Bronze Star w/V device. We didn't get it, and Hall died in 1991. It's a little late for that now but life gave many of us other rewards that we could have never imagined at that time. Just the opportunity to have had a full life and grow old is reward enough in and of itself. I remember when I could jump out of airplanes, now I can't even jump out of bed.... but that's alright! As for our fallen comrade, Valentine Vollmer, his remains were ultimately recovered on March 19, 1976 and returned to his family. It has been many years since he was physically with us, but he has never been absent from our heart.

- 17 February 1969 Operation SHERMAN PEAK/Operation NEVADA EAGLE: 1-502 IN BN assumed a primarily defensive posture as today was the start of TET ceasefire. The only activity was the sending out of security patrols.
- 17 – 18 February 1970 C/2-502 IN found five booby traps made from 60mm mortar rounds scattered along a well-used trail. The next day, C/2-502 IN, 1st platoon found another booby trap on an LZ. During this time, the O-Deuce was selected as the 101st Division's IRF (immediate reaction force). C/2-502 IN was appointed the Battalion IRF with 1st platoon designated to be the first to respond to a situation. (Mighty Men of Valor: With Charley Company on Hill 714-Vietnam 1970, by John G. Roberts)
- 17 February 1971 A/1-501 IN vicinity YD930986 discovered one 60mm mortar round booby trap. Recon Team 1 detonated three booby traps vicinity YD99490. Results 3 US WIA. B/1-501 IN vicinity YC922989 found an enemy sleeping position for 9-10 men. There were no signs of any recent enemy activity. A/1-501 IN vicinity YC923987 found one bunker and four 82mm mortar rounds. C/1-501 IN engaged 5-6 enemy 200 to 200 meters to the northwest of their position vicinity YD888028. ARA and Pink Team were employed with negative findings. Bunker 14 on OP Thunderbird sited 4-5 enemy crossing road into bushes vicinity YD902023. Mortar fire and automatic weapons fire was employed with negative results. Medivac requested for one US wounded from the back blast from a claymore mine.
- 18 – 20 February 1966 Operation VAN BUREN: One company of the 2-502 IN BN occupied a designated portion of defensive position of TUY HOA NORTH Airfield and the Battalion (-) conducted RECONDO Patrols. The REONDO platoon conducted a joint ARVN/RECONDO patrol vicinity coordinates BQ129539. The 2-502 IN BN conducted a search and Destroy Operations using infiltrated RECONDO patrols as guides and blocking positions on 182030H January 1966 vicinity coordinates BA1158. This operation was terminated on 201715H January 1966. Also, during this period, the RECONDO platoon conducted joint operations with RF/PF forces in a sweep of a village vicinity coordinates BQ150558. The results of the Battalion's operations for this period were no friendly losses, 6 VC KIA (BC), 2 VC KIA (EST), 1 WIA (BC), 3 WIA (EST), and 8 VCS. (HQ, 2-502 IN; Operations VAN BUREN After Action Report; 25 February 1966)
- 18 February 1968 1-502 IN BN continues search and destroy operations southeast of QUANG TRI with light contact and negative results.
- 18 February 1968 Operation TACOMA/HOUSTON: Operation TACOMA/HOUSTON began (2-502 IN); Locations: DA NANG Province, RVN. Task Organization: A/2-502 IN, B/2-502 IN, C/2-502 IN, Recondos. Battalion Control: 3(-) 2-326 ENG, C/2-320 ARTY (DS), Mortar Platoon (DS), IPW, 181 MI Detach. The following changes were made in the task organization during Operation SAN ANGELO. (1) During the course of the operation on 280001Feb, control headquarters was changed from 1st Marine Div to 5th Marine Regiment. (AAR 20MAR1968)
- 18 February 1969 Operation SHERMAN PEAK/Operation NEVADA EAGLE: 1-502 IN BN carried out patrols and ambushes. In the vicinity of YD6316 1-502 IN BN, Recon platoon found several bunkers that were recently used, a bunker complex, and several burned out hooches.
- 18 February 1969 Screaming Eagles joined with the people of THUA THIEN Province in celebrating the TET holidays. The 501st Signal threw a party at TAY LOC orphanage, inside the HUE Citadel. The orphanage had been destroyed in last year's TET Offensive but rebuilt with the 101st ABN DIV aid. Support Command and Division Artillery also gave parties at orphanages, and the three brigades gave a total of 15 parties at schools and orphanages. The Division band played at three locations, and Screaming Eagles were provided with newly minted coins and specifically printed holiday greetings to give to the people of the province. The Division also extended the helping hand to the widows and orphans of 1st ARVN Division soldiers who died defending their homeland.
- 18 February 1971 1-501 IN BN terminated operations in the area and returned to PHU BAI Combat Base by truck for refresher training. Training was orientated toward marksmanship, maintenance, contact teams, and commander's time.
- 19 February 1968 1-502 IN BN continues search and destroy operations with mission of security of QL #1 in AO. During this time period 3 VC KIA (BC) by ambush and 1 US WIA later KIA by mine on QL #1.

19 February 1968

Operation JEB STUART: 2-501 IN BN lead elements initiated their phase of Operation JEB STUART by moving South toward HUE with the mission of clearing all approaches into HUE from the northwest in conjunction with the 5-7th and 2-12th Cavalry. During this move to HUE, elements of the battalion were continuously harassed by snipers and squad and platoon sized delaying forces.

Upon closing to the northern portion of the wall around HUE, the battalion established defensive positions and conducted search and destroy operations in the immediate vicinity. Results of the operation were: 95 enemy killed, 29 captured and 42 weapons seized.

Operation TACOMA/HOUSTON: A/2-502 IN received AW fire from AT916910, results: 1 US WHA. At 0900H, B/2-502 IN detonated an AP mine, results: 2 US WHA, coordinates AT902956. Two additional command detonated mines were found at the same coordinates and destroyed in place. At 1200H, C/2-502 IN vicinity AT903936 spotted 13 VC eating, engaged with small arms, results 2 VC KIA, 1 AK-47, 1 SKS, 1 60mm Mortar complete captured. At 1445H, A/2-502 IN found enemy base camp with a large quantity of ammunition, explosive, and other sapper materials. (HQ, 2-502 IN BN; Operation Tacoma-Houston After Action Report; 20 March 1968)

19 February –
05 March 1968

Operation TACOMA/HOUSTON: Extensive Search and Destroy and saturation ambushing was conducted by the "STRIKE FORCE" with only sporadic local force units. No contact was made with Main Force VC/NVA units.

Operation SHERMAN PEAK/Operation NEVADA EAGLE: 1-502 IN BN continued to conduct RIF operations and established ambushes. The radar at FSB T-BONE reported movement of 2-3 persons in vicinity YD648209. 81mm mortars fired but at first light checked and showed negative results.

19 February 1969

Nine enemy were killed, and 10 weapons captured in the AO. The 2-501 IN BN while patrolling the NUI KE rocket belt, killed four enemy and captured five weapons. Gunships supporting sniffer aircraft killed three enemy in two contacts southeast of FSB TENNESSEE. (Rendezvous with Destiny (Volume 2, Number 1); Spring 1968-69)

19 February 1971

Operation JEFFERSON GLEN: B/2-502 IN, 3rd platoon, was credited with the only enemy contact during February. They spotted two NVA in a rest area, engaged them with small arms fire, and employed ARA and artillery on the site. Though they failed to find any enemy dead, the platoon captured numerous miscellaneous equipment and several items of value.

20 February 1968

1-502 IN BN continued with S&D and security mission. Light contact during the day with 1 NVA KIA (BC) by ambush.

20 February 1968

Operation TACOMA/HOUSTON: At 1345H, C/2-502 IN found vicinity AT903936 additional sapper equipment, 60mm bipod, and 4 – B40 Rockets. At 1655H, A/2-502 IN had three VC walk into their perimeter vicinity AT926909, results 1 VC KIA, 1 AK-47 captured. (HQ, 2-502 IN BN; Operation Tacoma-Houston After Action Report; 20 March 1968)

20 February 1969

Operation SHERMAN PEAK/Operation NEVADA EAGLE: A/1-502 IN, 3rd platoon at YD579147 spotted 1 VC on the trail. He was killed by a VC hand grenade booby trap resulting in 1 VC KIA and 1 AK-47 captured. The rest of the 1-502 IN BN conducted RIF operations and ambushes with C/1-502 IN continuing to provide security for FSB T-BONE.

20 February –
03 March 1969

Operation SPOKAN RAPID: Operation Began (2-502 IN); Locations: HAM HOA District, RVN. Task Organization: A/2-502 IN, B/2-502 IN, C/2-502 IN, D/2-502 IN, Recondos, 106mm RR Section, 81MM Mortar Platoon. Supporting Forces: C/2-320 ARTY (DS), A/326 ENG (-) (DS), 1 Plt B/326 ENG, Team from 20 Chemical Detachment (DS), Army Aviation (1st BDE AVN PLT, 160th AVN GRP), 7th USAF (TAC AIR)

Mission: The 2-502 IN BN (ABN) will secure FSB NORMANDY, construct and secure FSB SPEAR using accelerated fire support base construction plan, conduct RIF operations in assigned AO to locate and destroy enemy base areas and caches, locate and interdict enemy lines of communication, and fix and destroy enemy troop concentrations. (AAR 15MAR1969)

Execution: On 20 Feb, in preparation for the operation, A/2-502 IN was combat assaulted onto FSB NORMANDY while B/2-502 IN, C/2-502 IN, D/2-502 IN and Recon platoon were airlifted to FSB BIRMINGHAM. E/2-502 IN (-) with mortars radar and the Battalion forward CP were lifted to FSB NORMANDY after A/2-502 IN had secured the area. Adverse weather conditions began during the early morning hours on 21 February and continued until 24 February. During this time A/2-502 IN, E/2-502 IN (-), and the 2-502 IN BN Forward CP remained at FSB NORMANDY. The 2-502 IN BN (-) (Command Group), C/2-502 IN and D/2-502 IN remained at FSB BIRMINGHAM. A slight weather breaks on 23 February allowed resupply of FSB NORMANDY but the weather again closed in before any additional moves could be made. On 24 February, the weather lifted allowing B/2-502 IN and Recon platoon to be airlifted to FSB SPEAR. The weather breaks continued on 25 February and C/2-502 IN and D/2-502 IN conducted combat assaults onto LZ RED (YC636946) and started RIF operations. During the combat assault the gunship flying cover observed movement and bunker complexes to the North of the LZ. D/2-502 IN diverted operations; C/2-502

IN conducted operations to vicinity YC6494 and D/2-502 IN to vicinity YC6196. The Recon platoon began RIF operations to the South of FSB SPEAR and conducted the operation to vicinity YC6992. There was negative enemy contact during the operation. On 27 February C/2-502 IN located one hut at YC647947 and one bunker at YC646942. On 1 March C/2-502 IN closed on PZ Green (YC645946) and was extracted to FSB BIRMINGHAM. D/2-502 IN was extracted from PZ Yellow (YC645946) to FSB BIRMINGHAM, and the Recon platoon returned to FSB SPEAR and was extracted to FSB BIRMINGHAM. C/2-502 IN, E/2-502 IN (-) and the 2-502 IN BN CP remained at FSB NORMANDY; B/2-502 IN remained at FSB SPEAR. On 2 March C/2-502 IN moved by truck and assumed security of FSB Boyd. D/2-502 IN and Recon platoon remained at FSB BIRMINGHAM to secure a staging area for 2-501 IN BN. On 3 March the 2-502 IN BN CP was airlifted to CAMP EAGLE, A/2-502 IN and E/2-502 IN (-) secured FSB NORMANDY, and D/2-502 IN with the Recon platoon secured the staging area at FSB BIRMINGHAM. Operation SPOKANE RAPIDS terminated on 3 March at 2400H with no Enemy or Friendly losses or casualties.

03 March 1969

Operation SPOKANE RAPIDS: This operation was conducted by elements of the 2-502 IN BN, 3-187 IN BN (OPCON to 1BDE) and supporting artillery. Intelligence obtained prior to the initiation of the operation indicated that elements of the 5th NVA Regiment were located in the NAM HOA area and using the area as a rear support base to cache supplies, and the TA TRACH and PAO NAI Rivers as lines of communication to resupply their combat elements in the forward areas. It was believed the enemy would withdraw, employing delaying tactics, to the A SHAU and RUONG RUONG Valleys rather than defend his base areas. The 2-502 IN BN was to secure FSB NORMANDY, construct and secure FSB SPEAR using the accelerated fire support base construction concept; thereafter conduct reconnaissance in force operations in conjunction with the 3-187 IN BN in their respective AO to locate and destroy base areas and caches, locate and interdict enemy lines of communication, and fix and destroy enemy troop concentrations. Inclement weather slowed construction of FSB SPEAR and the combat assaults of the maneuver forces for several days. One in the area the maneuver elements encountered limited enemy contact and were extracted on 3 March. Enemy personnel losses during the operation were: 9 KIA and 2 wounded. Friendly personnel losses were: 3 killed and 11 wounded. (DA, Senior Officer Debriefing Report; MG Melvin Zais, CG, 101st ABN DIV; Period 19 July 1968 – 25 May 1969) (Operational Report – Lessons Learned, 101st ABN DIV; Period Ending 30 April 1969)

20 February 1969

1BDE initiated a new offensive operation with assaults south of FSB NORMANDY for probes into the 5th NVA Regiment base area. In search and clear operations northwest of BASTOGNE, A/1-502 IN killed one enemy and captured one weapon when they spotted a VC installing a booby trap. B/3-506 IN "CURRAHEES" found 1200 pounds of rice in an area surrounded by 105 booby traps; the next day, the paratroopers discovered 1500 pounds of rice. (Rendezvous with Destiny (Volume 2, Number 1); Spring 1968-69)

20 February 1970

C/2-502 IN, 1st platoon was combat assaulted from FSB ARSENAL to designated LZ's in the area.

20 – 28 February 1971

DEWEY CANYON II and LAMSON 719: HQ, 3BDE, 101st Airborne Division (Airmobile) deployed too central QUANG TRI and passed to the operational control of the 1BDE, 5th Infantry Division (Mech) until 24 February when they reverted to the operational control of the 101st. Constituting this brigade, the 1-501 IN BN deployed from THUA THIEN Province to QUANG TRI Province on 24 February, followed a day later by the 2-502 IN BN and the 2-327 IN BN on 28 February.

21 February 1966

Operation HARRISON: 2-502 IN BN received Brigade Frago 48-66 which assigned the mission of clearing area CANNON of all VC forces utilizing one (1) rifle company jointly with on (1) rifle company of the 2nd ROK Marine Brigade. Coordination with 2nd ROK Marine Brigade was immediately affected and Battalion OPOD 18-66 was published and distributed. (HQ, 2-502 IN; After Action Report, Operations HARRISON; 1 April 1966)

21 February 1968

Operation TACOMA/HOUSTON: At 1155H, A/2-502 IN engaged a small size enemy force, results: 1 VC KIA, 1 AK-47 captured. (HQ, 2-502 IN BN; Operation TACOMA-HOUSTON; After Action Report; 20 March 1968)

21 February 1968

1-502 IN BN continued with operations and had scattered light to moderate contact by B/1-502 IN. Results: 1 KIA, 1 WIA, and 4 NVA KIA (BC)

21 February 1968

D/2-501 IN continued search and destroy operations southeast of LZ SALLY while moving toward HUE from the northwest. It was this day that 2 Delta Raiders (SSG Joe R. Hooper and SSG Clifford C. Sims) was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor in 2 separate actions for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action at the risk of life above and beyond the call of duty". SSG Joe Ronnie Hooper was the MOST DECORATED SOLDIER OF THE VIET NAM WAR. Joe earned 37 medals including the Congressional Medal of Honor, 2 Silver Stars, 6 Bronze Stars, and 8 Purple Heart Medals)

Results of engagement – 1 Delta Raider killed in action – (Clifford Sims Congressional Medal of Honor – posthumously.) 22 Delta Raiders wounded in action – (Hubert L. Davis, James B. Bowman, John B. Gingerly, James L. Martin, James Calhoun, Jody Gravette, Tex W. Gray, David R. Leaf, Alfred M. Mount, James C. Rachell, Thomas Hopkins, Ava A. James, Thomas Miles, Noah N. Rockel, Davis Wallace, Frankie Gaines, Victor A. Holmes, Joe R. Hooper, Lonnie Thomas, Ernest McManus, Samuel Ayala, Henrie L. Delaney.) 24 NVA killed. (From D/2-501 IN incident report)

Eyewitness Account of the Battle (By PSG George Parker D/2-501 IN) The Delta Raiders were assaulting a strong enemy position near HUE on the 21st of February when heavy enemy rocket, machine gun and automatic weapons fire halted the advance in front of a stream about 20 feet wide. SSG Hooper, a squad leader, got a few men together and dashed across the stream and up into the face of the enemy fire even though the enemy was firing from bunkers just on the opposite bank. Those bunkers were overrun, and soon the rest of the company got moving following SSG Hooper's example. A couple men were hit and left exposed to enemy fire, but SSG Hooper braved the fire and went out after him. He brought one man back, and then went after the second man. He got to him but was wounded in the process. Still he brought the man back to safety and then went out again even though he was wounded himself. He found SSG Thomas pinned down and tried to find where the fire was coming from. SP4 Mount was up in front of them, so Sgt. Hooper called out to him to see if he could move between two small houses to locate the fire. Mount took one step between the houses and was hit in the leg. Because of his wound, he couldn't move, and the enemy fire was getting closer and closer. Sgt. Hooper took drastic action to prevent Mount from being killed. He moved around the left of the houses even though the enemy had manned bunkers not more than fifteen meters away from the side of the house. Somehow, he got past these bunkers and behind the houses where he saw three bunkers connected by a trench. SSG Hooper got up and charged the first bunker (they were no more than 10 meters apart), throwing a grenade inside and then spraying it with rifle fire. This killed everyone inside and from behind this bunker he started firing into the second bunker, and this fire eliminated everyone in there. He got up and ran toward the third bunker just as an NVA radioman came out, and SSG Hooper shot him dead. Those bunkers had had rockets, automatic weapons, and a large radio complex in them. SSG Hooper then returned to the river bank where a lot of men were hesitant about going forward. But after seeing SSG Hooper they all got up to follow him; Just as they had deployed at the top of the bank three NVA jumped out of the bamboo and started firing their AK-47's, but the Chaplain was the only man hit. Still, everyone just froze except SSG Hooper who fired away, dropping two of the enemy while the other managed to escape. SSG Hooper then bandaged the Chaplain's wound and helped him back to safety. When he returned, he led the men in a swamp up to the three bunkers he had just eliminated. In this sweep the other bunkers on the flank were overrun.

SSG Hooper moved ahead of his men at this point to analyse the situation and while forward saw three snipers running from a bunker in an effort to get to a house. Only two of them made it as SSG Hooper shot the third one down. Then taking a LAW, he hit the house they had just entered dead center and killed both men while setting the house ablaze. Over on the right the squad was getting heavy fire from two more houses and SSG Hooper proceeded to knock those out too. Still fire came from the right, and soon it was determined it was coming from a shrine in that area. SSG Hooper crawled forward with two other men and opened fire on it. The enemy fire soon ceased. Returning to his men, SSG Hooper led them in another sweep which overran a few more bunkers. Here they halted again, and SSG Hooper climbed on top of the bunkers to fire on the enemy. While he was on top of it an NVA officer climbed out and pointed his rifle at SSG Hooper's head. SSG Hooper swung around but the NVA pulled the trigger first. However, his weapon jammed, and SSG Hooper found he was out of ammunition. The NVA started running, but SSG Hooper caught him and killed him with his bayonet. When he got back to his men, he found they were under heavy automatic weapons from a house in front. Everyone was taking cover, but SSG Hooper moved out alone and maneuvered around behind the house. He kicked in the back door and was fired on instantly, but the bullets missed by about an inch or less, and the NVA didn't have a second chance. SSG Hooper opened up with a fierce blast and then threw in two grenades as he left, the total effect killing all the defenders. As his men moved up, they encountered stiff resistance. This was coming from the last line of defense where enemy bunkers were positioned in an inverted "U" with heavy fire coming from the row of bunkers on the left running perpendicular to the line of advance. There was a trench running in front of the bunkers and SSG Hooper dashed down this trench with SP4 Urban following. As he passed each one, he tossed a grenade into it and Urban made sure the job was done by pouring rifle fire into each one after the explosion. This killed all but two defenders who staggered out of one of the bunkers, shaken and bloody, they were taken prisoner. When they got to the last bunker they turned right and fired on two NVA behind the next bunker down the line. The NVA ducked down and SSG Hooper rushed up to the bunker from where he started firing on two more bunkers down the line, one housing a machine gun. He found out that the two NVA whom he had shot at were inside the bunker he was on and he dropped an incendiary grenade inside which was awfully effective. He kept on firing on the two bunkers, finally silencing the other one. Just then he saw that SP4 Gray was wounded in a trench near the bunkers he had just been firing on. Enemy fire was still sweeping the field, but SSG Hooper rushed over to Gray because Gray couldn't get out of the trench and the enemy was firing on him. When SSG Hooper got there, he sat his rifle down since he was out of ammunition and got into the trench to help Gray. Then SSG. Thomas threw SSG Hooper a .45 cal. pistol in case he needed it. SSG Hooper set the pistol down so that he could lift Gray with both hands, but just when he got him up, he saw an NVA come out of nowhere and point his rifle at SSG Hooper's head. Before the NVA could pull the trigger though SSG Hooper had picked up the pistol and blasted him. Then he took Gray back to a secure area and came back to reorganize his men. We were setting up a line just beyond the final bunker lines and enemy fire was still coming in. But Sgt. Hooper and SP4 Urban spotted it and started firing. Then SSG Hooper crawled forward to check the damage and found three NVA lieutenants with their heads riddled with bullets. After that we moved out into the field and pretty well cleaned up the area. SSG Hooper spent a lot of time taking care of the wounded and finally looked after his own wounds only after he had his men settled down.

SSG Joe R. Hooper in one day accomplished more than I previously believed could have been done in a month by one man. And he did it all while wounded. It wasn't just the actual count of positions overran and enemy killed which was important, but far more so was the fantastic inspiration he gave every man in the company. It was his personal courage on any number of occasions that kept everyone going against some of the heaviest fire I have ever encountered.

Combined forces in the 2BDE AO killed four enemies and took two weapons, and the allies in the 3BDE AO captured two prisoners and one weapon. (Rendezvous with Destiny (Volume 2, Number 1); Spring 1968-69)

21 February 1969

Operation SHERMAN PEAK/Operation NEVADA EAGLE: The only contact made today was by B/1-502 IN, 1st platoon at YD624206. They engaged 6 VC with small arms fire. Resulting in 1 VC KIA and 1 Ak-47 captured.

21 February 1970 D/1-502 IN located a bunker complex at 7699. Items found in the bunker included 2 AK-47's, 2 NVA ponchos, miscellaneous cooking utensils, and 1 typewriter. D/1-502 IN located trail with many recent footprints and requested a dog team.

21 – 28 February 1970 A/2-502 IN found seven graves containing the bodies of enemy Soldiers killed in combat. Since the usual policy was to open the graves to try and determine what NVA unit the dead had come from, the poor guys assigned to this detail must have had a very bad time.

During this time the C/2-502 IN, 1st platoon continued to patrol in the rain-soaked jungles. One overcast, drizzly day, word came over the radio that Recon had encountered some gooks and had killed one. We were told to be extra cautious because NVA were in the area. Walking along a wide jungle trail, we came upon the dead gook. He had been stripped of his uniform for intelligence purposes and I was able to see the wounds that killed him. It appeared that the bullet had entered his upper torso from the side and had traveled under the skin and muscle across his chest, exiting on the opposite side and raising big welts. (Mighty Men of Valor: With Charley Company on Hill 714-Vietnam 1970, by John G. Roberts)

22 February 1966 Operation HARRISON: At 1900H, B/2-502 IN departed battalion base vicinity CQ206426 by truck to dismount point vicinity CQ220386. Upon arrival at the dismount point three (3) Recon patrols were deployed to infiltrate the Objectives 1, 2 and 3, vicinity CQ165910, CQ187387 and CQ220391 respectively. There was negative enemy contact during the night. The 2-502 IN BN (-) continued with assigned security missions, maintenance of equipment and OMMI inspection at Battalion Base vicinity CQ206426. (HQ, 2-502 IN; After Action Report, Operations HARRISON; 1 April 1966)

22 February 1967 Operation FARRAGUT: 2-502 IN BN terminated operations in the western portion of the LE HONG PHONG and extracted to SONG MAO. (HQ, 1BDE, 101st ABN DIV; After Action Report, Operation FARRAGUT)

22 – 27 February 1967 Operation FARRAGUT IV: All units were moved to the vicinity of TAC CP by helicopter, ending Phase I of FARRAGUT IV. That afternoon, the 2-502 IN BN airlifted to SONG MAO to prepare for Phase II. On arrival at SONG MAO airstrip, the companies set up a bivouac in an area covered by dry brush, and there a mishap occurred which cost STRIKE FORCE dearly. A cooking fire got out of control, and immediately spread over a wide area, engulfing rucksacks, weapons, ammunition, hand-grenades, 60mm mortar rounds, and LAW's. Efforts to put the fire out failed, and troops began trying to carry equipment out of the danger area across a dirt road. Captain Steve Sylvasy, CO of C/2-502 IN, was right in the middle of the fire trying to supervise removal of LAW's and mortar ammunition, when the first large explosion was triggered by heat. Captain Sylvasy received severe shrapnel wounds in his chest and stomach, putting him out of action for over two months. Everyone moved across the road, and for the rest of the night sporadic explosions kept all personnel at a safe distance from the remains of the fire. The next day resupply operations began, and by 24 February the 2-502 IN BN was once again ready to conduct operations against the enemy.

The sudden and unexpected mission that initiated Phase II of FARRAGUT IV was to assist an ARVN Ranger Battalion which was heavily engaged with an estimated battalion size VC Main Force Unit in the DI LINH-BAO LOC area on Highway 20. Two ARVN relief columns had been ambushed, and a MACV Advisor Team was missing, believed captured. Local ARVN officials claimed adamantly that the VC were withdrawing to the west. Other sources indicated a possible move to the south and east. Playing a hunch, the 2-502 IN BN Commander committed only one company to the west of DI LINH and two to the south and east. A feature of this operation was the very rapid deployment of the STRIKE FORCE over a distance of over 70 km without any prior recon.

The first indication of trouble was received at the brigade at approximately 1230H and the 2-502 IN BN was in position by dark.

Southeast of DI LINH, C/2-502 IN ambushed 4 VC on the morning of the 25th, killing 2 and capturing 1. The POW sated that he was an intelligence squad member belonging to C 200 Battalion, and that 3 other Battalion size forces were in the DI LINH area. Acting on his information B/2-502 IN was air-lifted to interdict the suspected withdrawal route of one of the main force units. That evening a platoon of B/2-502 IN was caught in a three-sided ambush by an estimated company armed with heavy automatic weapons. The enemy did not withdraw, and fighting was extremely heavy throughout the night. Gunships and illumination were employed, but fighting was too close-in to utilize the gunships effectively. The enemy finally withdrew on the early morning of the 26th, leaving 9 VC KHA and 5 weapons. US losses were 1 KHA and 8 US WHA.

No other contacts were made with the enemy, and the 2-502 IN BN was extracted by helicopter to SONG MAO on 27 February.

SSG Jorge Otero-Barreto (A/1-502 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 17 February 1968. Staff Sergeant Otero distinguished himself while serving as a platoon sergeant on a combat operation near QUANG TRI, Republic of Vietnam. Staff Sergeant Otero's platoon was moving through rice paddies and wood lines on an overcast and partially rainy day when the point made contact with enemy positions concealed in a hedgerow. The enemy was firing rocket propelled grenades and machine guns and the point element had taken several casualties when staff Sergeant Otero took over the machine gun. With no assistance, as the machine gunner had been wounded and his assistance killed, Staff Sergeant Otero began returning the enemy fire so that the point could break contact with the numerically superior and well-concealed enemy force. With completed disregard for his own personal safety, Staff Sergeant Otero remained exposed to the intense enemy fire while the point began to withdraw. Because of the heavy volume of fire, he was placing on them, the enemy ceased firing on the rest of the point element and concentrated on Staff Sergeant Otero. Although he was wounded by a rocket propelled grenade, Staff Sergeant Otero remained exposed to the enemy fire until the rest of his element had moved to a defilade position. Having expended all the ammunition for the machine gun, Staff Sergeant Otero began firing his rifle and crawled back to rejoin the rest of the point. He then led them in an orderly withdrawal to safety. Staff Sergeant Otero's extraordinary heroism in close combat against a numerically superior Viet Cong force was in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. SGT Coulbourn Dykes (A/1-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 18 February 1968. Sergeant Dykes distinguished himself while serving as a fire team leader with Company A, 1st Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry, during a combat helicopter assault into the village of XOM TRUNG HOA, QUANG TRI Province, Republic of Vietnam. The third platoon moved into a position to assault a company-sized enemy force with the first platoon providing supporting fires. As the platoon moved forward on a prearranged signal, they began receiving heavy automatic weapons fire from four enemy bunkers. Sergeant Dykes ordered his fire team to lay down a base of fire. He charged through the hail of enemy fire, assaulting one enemy bunker. He tossed a grenade in the bunker aperture, killing its occupant and capturing one weapon. Sergeant Dykes then laid down a base of fire while his fellow platoon members rushed forward and destroyed two other enemy positions. Sergeant Dykes' actions resulted in two enemy dead and two weapons captured. Sergeant Dykes' personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 1SG Frederick C. Brander (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 19 February 1968. First Sergeant Brander distinguished himself while serving with Company A, 2d Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry. Company A was on combat operation near the village of Thon Thuan, Republic of Vietnam. First Sergeant Brander was with the point platoon on the sweep, when two men in khaki uniforms were spotted running into a hut, and the platoon moved on line and began to take them under fire. The platoon advanced approximately twenty meters when a tremendous volume of automatic weapons and machine gun fire from a hedgerow fifty meters to the front halted the advance. The volume of fire was so heavy that it was practically impossible to maneuver. One man was killed with the initial burst of fire, and in order to give cover to a medic that rushed to his aid, First Sergeant Brander exposed himself to the brutal fire. Moving first from the right flank to the left flank, First Sergeant Brander, continuing to give covering fire for the medic, placed a heavy volume of fire on the enemy, constantly braving the enemy fire to give encouragement to his men and direct their fire and movement. Moving out in front of the slowly advancing line of men, First Sergeant Brander threw smoke grenades in order to cover his movements and to permit a faster advance on the enemy positions. Still moving back and forth along the line of advance, First Sergeant Brander was helping to evacuate the wounded and men killed in the action when he was wounded by a burst of machine gun fire. His extraordinary courage and physical stamina were an inspiration to all those in the unit. First Sergeant Brander's exceptional valor at the risk of his own life and dedication to his men is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 1LT Robert H. Adams Jr. (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 19 February 1968. First Lieutenant Adams distinguished himself while serving as platoon leader with Company A, 2d Battalion, 501st Infantry. Company A was conducting combat operations eight kilometers west of HUE, Republic of Vietnam, and was advancing upon a wooded area over open rice paddies when the second platoon, under First Lieutenant Adams, broke contact with the company and veered to the left. Shortly the remainder of the company came under a withering hail of enemy rocket propelled grenade, machine gun, and automatic weapons fire from well-fortified bunker positions in trenches to the company's front. First Lieutenant Adams' platoon was advancing obliquely from the left and initially avoided the fire thus providing them with an opportunity to flank the enemy bunkers. But as they approached, they were taken under heavy machine gun fire from a bunker to their front. First Lieutenant Adams, with utter disregard for his own safety, rallied his men and led them in a fierce attack, First Lieutenant Adams himself charging the bunker with a pistol and grenades, knocking out the machine gun. Fire from other enemy positions now engulfed the platoon, yet First Lieutenant Adams, undaunted by the severity of the fire, personally led his men forward and overran a second position, silencing all the direct fire on the remainder of the company, while inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy and capturing a number of weapons and documents. First Lieutenants Adams' fierce offensive spirit and unreserved courage in the face of devastating enemy fire was an inspiration to his men and was greatly responsible for the total success of the ensuing assault. His initiative and devotion to duty were surpassed only by his personal valor. First Lieutenant Adams' exceptional gallantry is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 1LT Robert H. Adams Jr. (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Valor for heroism in ground combat in the Republic of Vietnam on 20 February 1968. First Lieutenant Adams (Then Second Lieutenant) distinguished himself while serving as a platoon leader with Company A, 2nd Battalion, 501st Infantry. Company A and Company C was engaged in a multi-unit search and clear operation in the vicinity of HUE, Republic of Vietnam. The entire unit was proceeding through a vast expanse of rice paddies toward a graveyard which was somewhat raised above the level of the paddies. Because it was a strategic position, the area was to be cleared before the companies set up for the night. Suddenly sniper fire erupted from the high ground, wounding three men with initial burst fire. Lieutenant Adams, the second platoon leader, quickly saw that because of the sniper's positions, the command groups of both companies were in extreme danger. Lieutenant Adams rallied his men together to form an assault line and with complete disregard for his own safety, led the charge on the enemy that resulted in killing several North Vietnamese Soldiers while sustaining no further casualties among his platoon. Due to Lieutenant Adams, quick reactions and refusal to panic in the face of deadly enemy fire, the enemy force was annihilated, and the loss of friendly personnel was kept to a minimum. Lieutenant Adams' personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 2LT Gary C. Bridges (C/2-501 IN) was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Valor for heroism in ground combat against an armed hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam on 20 February 1968. Second Lieutenant Bridges distinguished himself while serving as a platoon leader for Company C, 2d Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry, on a combat operation near HUE, Republic of Vietnam. At approximately 0930H, Company C was engaged in a sweep operation designed to drive the insurgents from any fortified positions. The company was on line with Lieutenant Bridges' platoon to the left side. As the assault line advanced, the right side of the line came under intense sniper fire. In a maneuver designed to give maximum fire power against the enemy and still maintain the advance of the company, Lieutenant Bridges' platoon was stretched out to two thirds of the company front with the other two platoons concentrated on the snipers. During the tricky change in the formation, Lieutenant Bridges was constantly moving along the extended line of his platoon despite the sporadic sniper fire, and occasional grenade barrages hitting his platoon. During the entire period, Lieutenant Bridges moved coolly about his platoon, checking his area, encouraging his men, and keeping the company commander informed with reports as to the status of the advance. As a direct result of his leadership and courageous actions, Lieutenant Bridges' platoon killed two Viet Cong and suffered no casualties. Second Lieutenant Bridges' personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. SGT Victor Zaragoza (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal (Posthumously) for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 20 February 1970. Sergeant Zaragoza distinguished himself while serving as a rifleman in Company A, 2d Battalion (Airmobile), 501st Infantry, during a reconnaissance-in-force operation near Fire Support Base VEGHEL, Republic of Vietnam. While waling as lead man for his platoon, Sergeant Zaragoza detected an enemy ambush to his front. He immediately shouted a warning to his platoon members and rushed the enemy position, enabling his comrades to maneuver for cover. His unselfish sacrifice prevented the enemy ambush from materializing and kept friendly casualties to a minimum. Sergeant Zaragoza personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 1LT David A. Hockett (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal (Posthumously) for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 20 February 1970. Lieutenant Hockett distinguished himself while serving as a platoon leader with Company A, 2d Battalion (Airmobile), 501st Infantry, while his platoon was conducting a reconnaissance-in-force operation north of Fire Support Base Veghel, Republic of Vietnam. Lieutenant Hockett's lead squad suddenly received heavy small arms and automatic weapons fire from a well-concealed enemy force. After directing the remainder of his element to fine cover, Lieutenant Hockett rushed forward to the area of contact where he saw the platoon's lead man lying on the trail. With complete disregard for his personal safety Lieutenant Hockett boldly ran forward to assist the wounded men. Despite intense hostile fire he managed to reach the lead man and began to carry him to cover. While carrying the injured man Lieutenant Hockett was mortally wounded by the North Vietnamese fire. Lieutenant Hockett's personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army (HQ, 101st ABN DIV; General Orders Number 2914; 13 March 1970)

SP4 John Marks (B/2-501 IN) was awarded the Army Commendation Medal with Valor for heroism in the Republic of Vietnam on 20 February 1970 and 21 February 1970. Specialist Marks distinguished himself while serving as a medical aidman in Company B, 2nd Battalion (Airmobile), 501st Infantry, during reconnaissance-in-force operations near the SONG BO River, Republic of Vietnam. On two successive days, Specialist Marks' unit received intense enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire. Each day, Specialist Marks rushed forward under fire to treat the wounded. He administered first aid and consoled his fellow Soldiers. On both days, Specialist Marks coordinated medical evacuation operations and was responsible for the evacuation of the wounded. His actions contributed greatly to the success of the mission. Specialist Marks' personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. SP4 Francis J. Gentile (HHC/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 21 February 1968. Specialist Gentile distinguished himself while serving as medical corpsman with Company C, 2d Battalion, 501st Infantry, during heavy fighting with a large enemy force several kilometers west of HUE, Republic of Vietnam. At the beginning of the battle Company C had three medical corpsmen attached to it including Specialist Gentile. However early in the day the two other corpsmen were wounded and put out of action, leaving only Specialist Gentile to care for the wounded of the entire company. The intensity of the fire which wounded his two comrades necessarily incurred even greater than normal casualties throughout the company, thus making his task all the more arduous and dangerous. But with the amazing energy, surpassed only by his unparalleled courage, he continually moved along the company front under constant and severe fire by the enemy. The company was hit by a veritable fusillade of rifle and machine gun fire from the enemy lines, this coupled with the barrage of grenades, both rifled and from M-79 grenade launchers. Even under the barrage Specialist Gentile continued to expose himself to the deadly enemy fire during the entire battle until all the wounded had been cared for. His outstanding heroism not only saved a number of lives but served to inspire those around him to greater efforts as well. Specialist Gentile's exceptional gallantry is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. SSG Clifford Sims (D/2-501 IN) (Posthumously) was awarded the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty while serving as a squad leader with Company D, 2d Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry Regiment, 101st Airborne Division, in action against enemy aggressor forces at HUE, Republic of Vietnam, on 21 February 1968. Company D was assaulting a heavily fortified enemy position concealed within a dense wooded area when it encountered strong enemy defensive fire. Once within the wood line, Staff Sergeant Sims led his squad in a furious attack against an enemy force which had pinned down the 1st Platoon and threatened to overrun it. His skillful leadership provided the platoon with freedom of movement and enabled it to regain the initiative. Staff Sergeant Sims was then ordered to move his squad to a position where he could provide covering fire for the company command group and to link up with the 3d Platoon, which was under heavy enemy pressure. After moving no more than 30 meters Staff Sergeant Sims noticed that a brick structure in which ammunition was stocked was on fire. Realizing the danger, Staff Sergeant Sims took immediate action to move his squad from this position. Though in the process of leaving the area two members of his squad were injured by the subsequent explosion of the ammunition, Staff Sergeant Sims' prompt actions undoubtedly prevented more serious casualties from occurring. While continuing through the dense woods amidst heavy enemy fire, Staff Sergeant Sims and his squad were approaching a bunker when they heard the unmistakable noise of a concealed booby trap being triggered immediately to their front. Staff Sergeant Sims warned his comrades of the danger and unhesitatingly hurled himself upon the device as it exploded, taking the full impact of the blast. In so protecting his fellow soldiers, he willingly sacrificed his life. Staff Sergeant Sims' extraordinary heroism at the cost of his life is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself and the United States Army. (General Orders Number 83; 12 December 1969)

SSG Joe R. Hooper (D/1-501 IN) was awarded the Medal of Honor for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty while serving with the 1st Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry Regiment, 101st Airborne Division (Airmobile), in action against enemy aggressor forces at HUE, Republic of Vietnam, on 21 February 1968. Staff Sergeant Hooper, U.S. Army, distinguished himself while serving as squad leader with Company D. Company D was assaulting a heavily defended enemy position along a river bank when it encountered a withering hail of fire from rockets, machineguns and automatic weapons. Staff Sergeant Hooper rallied several men and stormed across the river, overrunning several bunkers on the opposite shore. Thus inspired, the rest of the company moved to the attack. With utter disregard for his own safety, he moved out under the intense fire again and pulled back the wounded, moving them to safety. During this act Staff Sergeant Hooper was seriously wounded, but he refused medical aid and returned to his men. With the relentless enemy fire disrupting the attack, he single-handedly stormed three enemy bunkers, destroying them with hand grenade and rifle fire, and shot two enemy soldiers who had attacked and wounded the Chaplain. Leading his men forward in a sweep of the area, Staff Sergeant Hooper destroyed three buildings housing enemy riflemen. At this point he was attacked by a North Vietnamese officer whom he fatally wounded with his bayonet. Finding his men under heavy fire from a house to the front, he proceeded alone to the building, killing its occupants with rifle fire and grenades. By now his initial body wound had been compounded by grenade fragments, yet despite the multiple wounds and loss of blood, he continued to lead his men against the intense enemy fire. As his squad reached the final line of enemy resistance, it received devastating fire from four bunkers in line on its left flank. Staff Sergeant Hooper gathered several hand grenades and raced down a small trench which ran the length of the bunker line, tossing grenades into each bunker as he passed by, killing all but two of the occupants. With these positions destroyed, he concentrated on the last bunkers facing his men, destroying the first with an incendiary grenade and neutralizing two more by rifle fire. He then raced across an open field, still under enemy fire, to rescue a wounded man who was trapped in a trench. Upon reaching the man, he was faced by an armed enemy soldier whom he killed with a pistol. Moving his comrade to safety and returning to his men, he neutralized the final pocket of enemy resistance by fatally wounding three North Vietnamese officers with rifle fire. Staff Sergeant Hooper then established a final line and reorganized his men, not accepting treatment until this was accomplished and not consenting to evacuation until the following morning. His supreme valor, inspiring leadership and heroic self-sacrifice were directly responsible for the company's success and provided a lasting example in personal courage for every man on the field. Staff Sergeant Hooper's actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Army. (General Orders Number 24; 17 April 1969)

SGT Dale A. Urban (D/2-501 IN) was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in connection with military operations involving conflict with an armed hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam, while serving with Company D, 2d Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry, 2d Brigade, 25th Infantry Division. Sergeant Urban distinguished himself by exceptionally valorous actions on 21 February 1968 as a team leader during an assault by his company against a strongly entrenched enemy force near HUE. As his unit drew near a stream fronting the communists' strongholds, it was met by rocket and machine gun fire from a series of bunkers lining the opposite shore. The barrage caused the company to halt and take cover, but Sergeant Urban and his squad leader rushed forward in a daring assault through the chest-deep water silencing several positions. When the company advanced deeper into the dense woods, the hostile fire increased from the strategically placed bunkers and fortified villages. The deadly cross fires again caused men to falter and take cover as the casualties mounted. Ignoring the devastating fusillade, Sergeant Urban and his squad leader sprang forward and assaulted several more bunkers with hand grenades, eliminating all resistance. Ahead of them, however, lay a line of four fortifications which were placing fire into the flanks of their unit, effectively halting further advance. Sergeant Urban and his squad leader, in total disregard for their safety, rushed forward and ran along a trench line fronting the bunkers, throwing hand grenades inside and raking the positions with rifle fire as they passed. They killed all the occupants, except for two who staggered out and were captured. Sergeant Urban then rushed another bunker totally destroying it with an incendiary grenade, and began to deliver heavy fire into two more emplacements, one harboring a machine gun. Both of these were soon silenced by his accurate fire. The enemy's final line of resistance had all but disintegrated, except for sporadic fire which continued from an undetermined location. Sergeant Urban and his squad leader, though unable to spot any movement, quickly estimated the source of the fire to be in some high brush just thirty meters to their front. Putting their rifles on full automatic, the two men sprayed the suspected area and waited for a response. There was no return fire. Suspecting a possible trap, Sergeant Urban courageously crawled forward and found three North Vietnamese officers, killed by rifle fire behind the concealing underbrush. Sergeant Urban's extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. (HQ, USARV, General Orders Number 502; 13 February 13, 1969)

SFC George Parker Jr. (D/ 2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 21 February 1968. Platoon Sergeant Parker distinguished himself while serving with Company D, the Delta Raiders of the 2d Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry. Company D was conducting a coordinated assault on a strongly fortified and tenaciously held enemy position in a dense wood near HUE, Republic of Vietnam. As the Delta Raiders moved to the assault across a wide, deep stream heavy enemy automatic weapons fire engaged the attacking force, and a rocket added to the crescendo the company slowed, and many men took cover as their comrades fell under the enemy onslaught. Yet Platoon Sergeant Parker stood amidst this terrible storm of fire coming from heavy bunkers on the opposite shore and rallied his men by personal courage, leading them in a fierce assault across the stream, overrunning the first line of bunkers where an enemy flag which had flauntingly flown was captured. Moving into the dense and nearly impenetrable wood the fighting became savage, at times involving hand to hand combat. As men fell Platoon Sergeant Parker rushed up under torrents of lead to treat the men and carry them back. After evacuating several men Platoon Sergeant Parker, in reorganizing his men, found that two of his squad leaders had been wounded and that his platoon leader's radio had been destroyed by enemy fire, thus severing communications. Quickly assuming total command of the situation, Platoon Sergeant Parker organized the rest of his men into two squads and then led them forward in a driving attack on the enemy positions, a series of strong bunkers interlinked by an intricate trench system. Personally, destroying two enemy bunkers with hand grenades, Platoon Sergeant Parker remained in the van of the attacking force as the situation called for more inspired leadership than tactical control. Moving forward against undiminished enemy fire, Platoon Sergeant Parker led his platoon in an overwhelming advance, relentlessly, driving the enemy, and destroying them in place where they refused to flee. By his personal courage and inspiring example, the platoon was able to totally destroy a most formidable enemy stronghold which might otherwise have destroyed the platoon in place, so great was the enemy firepower. Platoon Sergeant Parker's personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. CPT William W. Erbach (HHC/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action against an armed hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam on 21 February 1968. Chaplain Erbach distinguished himself while serving as chaplain with the 2d Battalion (Airborne) 501st Infantry near HUE, Republic of Vietnam. The Battalion was making an assault on a North Vietnamese Regimental base camp and was encountering severe enemy fire from a strong, well-entrenched bunker system. Fighting became very intense and drew to close quarters as casualties began to mount. Company D was making the main assault, and this is where Chaplain Erbach went in an effort to inspire the men. He continually moved along the line encouraging the men, but as the casualties increased Chaplain Erbach, unarmed and in complete disregard for his own safety, moved out across the bullet swept field to help care for an evacuate the wounded. Time and again he crossed the field, aiding the wounded and materially helping in every way possible. While assisting one of the fallen Soldiers, Chaplain Erbach was himself seriously wounded after he had been repeatedly advised to leave the forward area. After receiving first aid and being taken to the rear, he refused medical evacuation and remained on the field caring for further wounded Soldiers as they were brought to his position for evacuation. Only after all the wounded had been evacuated, five full hours after being grievously wounded himself, did Chaplain Erbach consent to being evacuated. His courage and inspiration were of great significance in contributing to the success of the battalion's assault. Chaplain Erbach's personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 2LT Robert L. Worrall (B/2-501 IN) was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Valor for heroism in ground combat against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam on 21 February 1970. Lieutenant Worrall distinguished himself while serving as a platoon leader in Company B, 2d Battalion, (Airmobile), 501st Infantry, on a reconnaissance patrol near the Song Bo River, Republic of Vietnam. When the lead man in the patrol observed a possible enemy position, Lieutenant Worrall deployed his men and directed them to conduct reconnaissance by fire. Immediately, his platoon received intense automatic weapons fire from a small force of North Vietnamese Army Soldiers. Lieutenant Worrall repeatedly subjected himself to hostile fire to direct the return fire of his men, expedite the medical evacuation of the wounded, and direct artillery strikes. His actions under fire were an inspiration to his unit. Lieutenant Worrall's personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. CPT David W. Reiss (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 22 February 1968. Captain Reiss distinguished himself while commanding Company A, 2d Battalion, 501st Infantry during an assault on a heavily fortified enemy position three kilometers west of HUE, Republic of Vietnam. The enemy position consisted of well-fortified bunker complex, linked by an intricate trench system, and manned by an estimated North Vietnamese Company. The approach routes to the position, which skirted a small village, were very poor and as a result the attack had to be made over a route which afforded very little cover. The assault began in conjunction with Bravo Company, Company A on Bravo's right, and from the outset Captain Reiss positioned himself in an open rice paddy in order to better control his own company and from where he could better observe the enemy. He gave no indication that he was even aware of, much less concerned about, the intense enemy fire streaming into the paddy in the form of machine gun, automatic rifle, and small arms fire as well as rocket propelled grenades which continually slammed into the area. The volume of fire steadily increased, and the rockets became incessant rather than frequent. Still Captain Reiss' only concern was directing his company and destroying the enemy as he himself remained dangerously exposed all the while. At one point a platoon was pinned down by murderous fire, so that is where Captain Reiss went, ignoring the extreme danger as he shifted men and weapons bringing devastating firepower of his own on the enemy, and all the while inspiring his men by courageous presence in the bullet-swept zone. This inspiration was the spark necessary to build up the momentum of the platoon and the entire attack as it got rolling and swept over the enemy positions, thus enabling the company to complete its mission. The final assault which carried the enemy position may well not have been possible were it not for Captain Reiss' forceful and inspiring leadership. Captain Reiss' gallantry in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. SSG Charles J. Maguire (B/2-501 IN) was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Valor for heroism in ground combat against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam on 22 February 1968. Staff Sergeant Maguire distinguished himself while serving as a squad leader with the first platoon of Company B, 2nd Battalion (Airborne) 501st Infantry, during a combat operation approximately four kilometers northwest of HUE, Republic of Vietnam. Staff Sergeant Maguire's squad came under heavy enemy fire while moving with the company. At that time, he skillfully maneuvered his squad to a more advantageous position from which he was able to pour a devastating amount of fire into enemy lines. In the meantime, a number of his men had been wounded, and Staff Sergeant Maguire, with utter disregard for his own personal safety, exposed himself to the still intense enemy fire in order to help evacuate these men. Again, and again he returned under heavy fire to bring back the wounded and, despite the severity of the enemy fusillade, he returned to his lines only after all the wounded had been cared for and brought out of the line of fire. Upon returning to his men, Staff Sergeant Maguire's squad was completely suppressed. His unreserved courage and unsurpassed skill were an inspiration and lasting example to his men. Staff Sergeant Maguire's exceptional valor is in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service, and reflects great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 2LT John R. Rodelli (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Valor for heroism in ground combat against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam on 22 February 1968. Second Lieutenant Rodelli distinguished himself by heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force while serving as a platoon leader while Company A, 2nd Battalion, 501st Infantry was on a combat operation near HUE, Republic of Vietnam. The company had come under heavy fire from a series of fortified positions held by an estimated enemy company. Second Lieutenant Rodelli, realizing the importance of knocking out the fortified enemy positions to free the company's progress, led the lead elements of his platoon against the enemy's positions disregarding his own safety. Even though sustaining heavy automatic weapons and rocket propelled grenade fire, Second Lieutenant Rodelli fearlessly led his men across an open field. Under his masterful direction of fire, and great personal courage, Second Lieutenant Rodelli's Platoon overran the tough enemy position. This courageous act enabled the rest of the company to move forward unhindered and free to accomplish their mission. Second Lieutenant Rodelli's unhesitating courage and dedication to his unit's mission were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. CPT Jackie Justice (HHC/1-502 IN) was awarded the Army Commendation Medal with Valor for heroism while participating in aerial flight in the Republic of Vietnam on 22 February 1968. Captain Justice distinguished himself while serving as Battalion S-3 Officer of the 1st Battalion (Airborne) 502d Infantry in the Command and Control ship in support of a combat operation near Quan Tri, Republic of Vietnam. Company B and Company C of the Battalion had intensive contact with the enemy. Company C had two wounded men in front of enemy bunkers situated in a rice paddy and could not be reached by friendly forces because of the intensive fire from the enemy. The Battalion Commander ordered the Command and Control ship to make low, slow passes directly in front of the Viet Cong bunkers. Although the aircraft received numerous hits from the insurgent positions, it continued making passes at the bunkers. Captain Justice's placing fire on the bunkers with his M16 rifle from the aircraft, contributed immeasurably to the extraction of the wounded Company C men. Captain Justice's personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 22 February 1968

SGT Roland P. Levesque (D/1-502 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal (Posthumously); SGT Levesque distinguished himself by exceptionally valorous actions against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam. On 22 February 1968, SGT Levesque and his squad while conducting ground operations near the province of Quan Tri, came under intense fire from an enemy bunker. While maneuvering his squad, one of his men was wounded by the enemy. With no regard for his own personal safety, SGT Levesque directed his squad to return the fire while he charged through the intense automatic weapons fire to recover the wounded man. As he was returning to his squad with the wounded man, SGT Levesque was mortally wounded. SGT Levesque's actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. PFC Albania Small (B/1-502 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal for gallantry in connection with military operations against an opposing armed force while serving with Company B, 1st Battalion, 502d Infantry Regiment, 101st Airborne Division, in the Republic of Vietnam, on 22 February 1968. His actions, without regard for his own safety, reflect great credit on himself and the Armed Forces of the United States. (HQ, 101st ABN DIV, General Orders Number 73; 23 December 1987)

PFC William J. Franks (B/2-502 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal (Posthumously) for gallantry in action while on a search and destroy mission near Ban Ne Thuot, was suddenly brought under a tremendous volume of fire from an estimated company size element in fortified positions. As the platoon moved forward in the assault. Private Franks observed an enemy machine gun position to his front that was placing murderous fire on an element of his platoon. With complete disregard for his own personal safety, Private Franks exposed himself to the enemy fire and began firing his weapon into the enemy position. Realizing that his fire was not effective and that he must act quickly, Private Franks jumped up and charged the enemy position, firing as he ran. When Private Franks was approximately twenty meters from the enemy machine gun he was struck by an enemy bullet and knocked to the ground. Getting on his feet Private Franks continued to assault the enemy position until he was struck by another enemy bullet and mortally wounded. As a result of Private Franks' courageous actions, the enemy position was destroyed, and many lives were saved. Private Franks' outstanding gallantry in action and his avid devotion to duty even at the cost of his life are within the highest military tradition and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. 23 February 1968

2LT Robert H. Adams JR. (A/2-501 IN) was awarded the Silver Star Medal (1-OLC) for gallantry in action in the Republic of Vietnam on 23 February 1968. First Lieutenant Adams distinguished himself while serving as platoon leader with Company A, 2d Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry. Company A was providing the rear security for a battalion size assault on a North Vietnamese Regimental base camp north of HUE, Republic of Vietnam. As the battle grew in intensity, the attacking force began receiving heavy rocket propelled grenade and sixty-millimeter mortar fire from the right flank. Company A was instructed to move to the area and silence the enemy resistance. As Lieutenant Adams moved his platoon toward a hedgerow, the platoon came under heavy rocket propelled grenade and machine gun fire from the concealed enemy force. Knowing that to delay might be disastrous; he led his platoon in a headlong dash to the hedgerow. Apparently noting the Lieutenant Adams was the rallying force in the unit, the enemy concentrated a furious burst of fire on him, destroying his rifle in his hands. He stopped momentarily, picked up the grenade launcher of a wounded man, and again resumed his assault on the enemy. With his men following him, the enemy positions were overrun and the platoon, more slowly now, pursued the fleeing enemy. After an hour of continuous fighting, Lieutenant Adams had succeeded in reaching his objective and the company began to set up a defensive perimeter. Very soon though, sniper fire began to erupt from within the perimeter and Lieutenant Adams, with several other, attempted to locate the snipers. He soon discovered that there were three North Vietnamese in a small area. Concealing his movement with smoke grenades, Lieutenant Adams crept forward in a low crouch and as the smoke cleared, found himself almost face to face with the surprised enemy. He quickly shot all three of the enemy soldiers and finally was able to declare the area secured. Second Lieutenant Adams' personal bravery and devotion to duty were in keeping with the highest traditions of the military service and reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. CPT Dennis J. Gillem (C/2-501 IN) was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with Valor (2-OLC) for heroism in ground combat against a hostile force in the Republic of Vietnam on 23 February 1968. Captain Gillem distinguished himself while serving as Company Commander of Company C, 2d Battalion (Airborne), 501st Infantry, on combat operations near the village of Chua Thieu Mu, Republic of Vietnam. The company, led by the third platoon as point element, was engaged in a large sweep designed to drive the insurgents from their fortified positions. As they moved out the third platoon came under intense enemy fire. Captain Gillem immediately moved forward from his rear position to the forward most element of the platoon to assess the situation. After making his assessment, Captain Gillem again moved across the bullet swept fields to the second platoon to personally direct its movements. Despite the heavy fire and with complete disregard for his own welfare, Captain Gillem moved with the forward element of the platoon in order to effectively control the flanking attack on the enemy. Through informants captured during the sweep it was determined that an estimated battalion of North Vietnamese lie in and wait to ambush the company. Because of the overwhelming numerical superiority and the close proximity to the enemy, Captain Gillem chose to withdraw in order to call in effective artillery fire. Captain Gillem personally directed all elements of the company in an orderly withdrawal and in spite of the intense enemy fire, remained in place until his assurance that all elements of his command had withdrawn. Captain Gillem's courageous actions during the engagement, without regard for his own safety, enabled the company to drive the enemy from the fortified positions. His leadership and personal direction were an inspiration to his men and rallied confidence in their abilities. Captain Gillem's exceptionally gallant actions reflect great credit upon himself, his unit, and the United States Army. (HQ, 101st AIR CAV DIV; General Orders Number 4605; 11 August 1968)
